I've tried different variants of the regex and haven't gotten what I want yet. And I've also tried `re.MULTILINE`, `re.DOTALL` and `re.UNICODE`, all with the same result. This is my first time working with a CLI so any help is appreciated. A: You need to use `re.findall(pattern, text)`, it returns all matches in a list. The pattern is `/dpaper.? \s\.\s*pdf\s*/g`, all that will be matched is pdf (it is not limited to pdf or whatever, it will match other text too. Also, it's necessary to add `\.` as a pattern, that means if you use re.search, you have to use regex engine, I'm using Python, if you use POSIX regular expressions, `^s+/g` will do the job and if you use PCRE, it's necessary to use `/g`, because `\n` is an escape code for newline. Oh, and as a valid filename, it should be encoded. E.g. `import re pattern = r'dpaper.? \s\.\s*pdf\s*(/g' text = ''' DATADIRECTOR Küçük Hamam Hastanesi "Yakas" Oyunları GELDİ- Galatasaray ''' print(re.findall(pattern, text)) # ['DATADIRECTOR KÜÇÜK`
